THE OPPORTUNITY

Your Customers Already Love Horses

- › North 40's customers are horse owners, ranchers, and farm families. They already come to your store.
- › Tribal Cowboy gives them a reason to bring the whole family — and stay 30–60 minutes longer.
- › Every guest photo carries the North 40 logo — circulating in the horse community's feed for days after the event.

THE CORE IDEA

Set up a working herd — Clydesdales and ponies — in your parking lot. Guests ride, photograph, and share. North 40 is in every photo. The horse community sees your brand in their feed all week.

WHY THIS IS EASY TO APPROVE

- ✓ $2M liability insurance — COI names North 40 as additionally insured
- ✓ Zero store staff required — we handle everything
- ✓ Fully enclosed panels — no loose animals, ever
- ✓ CCPA-aligned photo system — no PII stored or retained
- ✓ Start with one event — scale only if you want to

WHAT A FAMILY EXPERIENCE LOOKS LIKE

1

Pull In

Family came for feed. They see the horses. Nobody leaves without stopping.

2

Queue

10–20 min wait. The other parent heads inside. Incremental browsing begins.

3

Ride

Child rides the pony. 5–7 minutes. Handler leads the whole way.

4

Photo

Family poses with the Clydesdale. Your customers know what that horse is worth.

5

Scan

Parent scans QR. Photo delivered instantly. North 40 brand in the frame.

6

Shop

Whole family goes inside. Browses longer than planned. Photo gets shared. North 40 reach continues.

THE ALIGNMENT ADVANTAGE

This Is Already Your Audience

North 40's customers are ranch families, horse owners, and farm-lifestyle people — the exact demographic that stops everything when a Clydesdale walks by. The question isn't whether they'll respond. They will. The question is whether North 40 is the store they tell that story about — or someone else is.

Factor	Typical Store Event	Tribal Cowboy Activation
Who Shows Up	Solo customer — in for one thing, out in 15 minutes	Whole family — kids, spouse, and anyone who heard about the horses
Dwell Time	Task-based — planned purchase, minimal browsing	30–60 min longer — queues, photos, and the Clydesdale do the work
Incremental Spend	Purchase they already planned	Unplanned browsing while waiting → unplanned purchases
Social Content	Minimal — nothing worth posting	Dozens to hundreds of branded photos per event — horse community sees North 40 in their feed
Audience Reach	Existing customer base only	Photos circulate to friends, family, and followers — all horse adjacent
Brand Association	Retailer of farm & ranch supplies	The store that brings live Clydesdales — community hub, not just a store
Repeat Visits	Next purchase need	"We go to North 40 for the horse events" — emotional loyalty, not transactional
Media Interest	None	Local news angle — North Idaho horse community + live Clydesdales at North 40
Customer Fit	Generic event — may feel off-brand to working ranch customers	Single contained zone — ranch customers park, shop, and leave unaffected.

THE DIFFERENTIATOR

This aligns with the knowledge and expectations of your core customer. Your customers trust you with their farm and their animals. A live Clydesdale in your parking lot tells them you understand their life — not just their shopping list.

THE BUSINESS CASE

What North 40 Gets in Return

The activation cost is the base fee. This activation is designed to convert parking lot traffic into in-store revenue in real time — through extended dwell time, whole-family store exposure, and North 40 branding circulating through the horse community's social feeds for days after the event ends.

RETAIL IMPACT SNAPSHOT

60–120 FAMILIES ENGAGED	30–60 min INCREASED DWELL TIME *	$1,500– $3,000 EST. SAME-DAY REVENUE	100+ BRANDED SOCIAL SHARES *
-----------------------------------	--	--	--

* Dwell-time and social-share figures are projections based on experiential retail benchmarks (McKinsey; active entertainment venue data). The $25/family revenue assumption is conservative vs. ICSC avg. spend data. Tribal Cowboy's own event history is on the Track Record page.

Conversion: Parking Lot → Store Floor

Families in the lot for the horses end up in the store. The parent waiting in the queue had 15 minutes of unplanned browse time. McKinsey links experience-led retail to a 2–7% sales lift.

Whole-Family Basket Size

Your typical customer comes solo for a specific item. This brings the spouse, the kids, and grandparents — more people, more departments, more unplanned spend.

Organic Social in the Right Feed

Every photo carries the North 40 logo. When guests post, your brand shows up in the horse community's feed — reaching people who already buy what you sell.

Repeat Visit & Community Identity

Partnering with an Indigenous-owned North Idaho horse business positions North 40 as a community hub. Families return for future events — emotional loyalty that outlasts any one transaction.

IN-STORE TIE-IN OPPORTUNITIES

- › Kids' western apparel — boots, hats, youth gear
- › Seasonal promotions — spring prep, fall supply, back-to-school
- › Horse treats & grooming supplies — impulse purchase while waiting
- › "Ride day" promo signage inside store directing families to relevant departments

THE MATH

At 60–120 families per event, even $25 in incremental per-family spend generates $1,500–$3,000 in additional store revenue on activation day. For context: ICSC data shows average retail spend per visit at $103–$140 — making $25 a floor, not a ceiling. The activation requires no operational changes and no staff allocation. The base fee pays for itself in a single event.

THE AMPLIFICATION STRATEGY

Before, During, and After — Every Phase Works for North 40

The activation itself is one day. The content it generates circulates for weeks — and all of it carries North 40's brand into the exact communities you're trying to reach.

PHASE 1 — BEFORE

Build the Anticipation

- ✓ Social posts + email to loyalty list 2–3 weeks out: "Live horses coming to your North 40 store"
- ✓ Tribal Cowboy countdown content tagging @North40Outfitters across Instagram, Facebook, and TikTok
- ✓ Share to local horse/ranch Facebook groups, 4-H accounts, and 2–3 horse community influencers

PHASE 2 — DURING

Capture Everything

- ✓ Every guest photo delivered instantly, branded with North 40 logo — no app, no email, no wait
- ✓ Live stories from North 40 and @TribalCowboy simultaneously; QR station prompts guests to tag @North40Outfitters
- ✓ Horse community customers stop and engage — and any local media can walk up without coordination

WHY UGC DRIVES REAL REACH

UGC generates 6.9x more engagement than brand content. Photo booth content = 40–60% of event hashtag volume. (Nosto, FeatureBooth, Salesforce)

PHASE 3 — AFTER

Extend the Shelf Life

- ✓ Tribal Cowboy delivers 5 edited event images to North 40 within 7 days — any platform, any use
- ✓ Proof-of-performance summary: reach, photo shares, estimated impressions, incident log (if any)
- ✓ "Next one is coming" teaser — every event builds the next one's audience and makes the calendar easier to fill

THE COMPOUNDING EFFECT

A single activation generates content that circulates in the horse community for weeks. Every event adds to a brand story that no competitor can replicate — North 40 as a place that truly gets ranch and horse culture, not just sells to it.

INVESTMENT OPTIONS

Three Ways to Partner

North 40 pays a flat base fee. Guests pay $5 per pony ride — that revenue goes to Tribal Cowboy. Photos are $5 each, or North 40 can sponsor them flat, putting the store brand on every image the horse community shares. Every tier includes full insurance, on-site safety staff, and all animal handling. No hidden costs.

Comparable live animal activations at retail events run $5,000–$15,000. Our base fee model is priced as a low-risk entry point to prove performance.

Limited to select dates due to animal scheduling and event capacity.

- ✓ 2 handlers, full safety setup and fencing

- ✓ General liability insurance documentation

- ✓ Model can be repeated across multiple North 40 locations — consistent regional event program

BEST FOR

Store and regional management teams building North 40 as the definitive hub for North Idaho's horse and ranch community — and scaling that identity across locations.

HOW THE ACTIVATION PAYS FOR ITSELF

At 60–120 families per event, even $25 in incremental per-family in-store spend offsets the base fee in additional store revenue. (ICSC data puts average retail spend per visit at $103–$140 — $25 is conservative by design.) A photo sponsorship puts North 40's brand on every image the horse community shares for $500 flat. This is not a one-time event — it is built to repeat, scale, and compound with each date added.

OPTIONAL ADD-ON

Ride Sponsorship — "Free Pony Rides"

North 40 covers all pony rides — guests ride at no charge. Lets the store advertise "Free pony rides this weekend," which drives significantly more foot traffic than a ticketed model. Removes cash transactions on-site and simplifies the guest experience.

OPERATIONS & SAFETY

Controlled by Design. Zero Burden on Store Staff.

SPACE REQUIREMENTS

Full three-zone setup requires a minimum 40' × 60' footprint in your parking lot — level ground, away from active traffic lanes. Pony loop needs level surface. Clydesdale photo area: 15' × 20'. Photo delivery station is self-contained and weatherproof.

Tribal Cowboy will walk the lot in advance and advise on optimal placement for each store's footprint. We have activated in parking lots, event fields, and covered outdoor areas.

SETUP & TEARDOWN

Tribal Cowboy handles all setup and teardown. Arrival 2 hours before open. Teardown complete within 90 minutes of close. Animals arrive in Tribal Cowboy's own trailer and are managed exclusively by our handlers. No store staff involvement required at any point.

STAFFING

Every activation includes a minimum of 2 animal handlers, 1 photo delivery operator, and 1 guest flow coordinator. Staffing scales to event size. All Tribal Cowboy personnel are uniformed and branded throughout the event.

OUR TRACK RECORD IN NORTH IDAHO

Not a First-Time Experiment

Tribal Cowboy has a multi-year history of safely bringing horses into the exact kinds of environments North 40 serves — churches, town streets, farmers markets, preschools, and private family properties. The operator you would be working with has already managed horses safely in high-traffic public spaces, shared parking lots, parade routes, and early childhood settings — with all animal handling and guest flow managed by our team, not the host.

SEPTEMBER 2025

Church Event — Wagon Rides

Pony-driven wagon rides in a compact parking-lot style space — managing horses, wagon, and guest queues in close quarters. Same footprint as a North 40 activation pad.

2024 — FULL HERD ACTIVATION

Brought full herd — Clydesdales, ponies, and our zebra — to a busy community festival. All-day operation with families, strollers, food vendors, and constant foot traffic nearby.

Spirit Lake, Rathdrum, and Coeur d'Alene — horses and wagon integrated into city-managed routes, staging areas, and live crowd control plans.

FARMERS MARKETS

Rathdrum farmers markets — contained interaction zones in active shared parking areas, managing space, sightlines, and pedestrian flow simultaneously.

PRIVATE PARTIES

WHAT THIS MEANS FOR NORTH 40

This is not a "first-time experiment" — it's the next step for a program that's already working in your communities. The parking lot, the shared space, the live crowd: we've operated in all of it. The only thing new is the North 40 logo on the photo overlay.

Early events were intentionally priced below market to validate operations, refine the photo system, and build a zero-incident track record. Current partnership pricing reflects the proven model.

BEFORE YOU ASK

The Five Questions Every Decision-Maker Has

Q1 — LIABILITYWhat if a guest gets injured?

Tribal Cowboy carries $2M per-occurrence general liability insurance with a dedicated animal liability endorsement. Your company is named as additionally insured on the COI before the event date. Lead-line only riding, fully enclosed panels, and a minimum of two handlers per pony mean the activation is built around preventing injury. We have operated at schools, community events, and public venues without incident.

Q2 — ANIMAL SAFETYWhat if an animal behaves unpredictably?

Our animals are trained for public activations — not borrowed for the day. They're accustomed to crowds, children, noise, and unfamiliar settings. Our handlers read animal behavior continuously and remove any animal showing stress before it becomes a problem. Guests interact from one side of a fixed panel system; the animals are never loose in the activation area at any point.

Q3 — PERMITS & COMPLIANCEDo we need permits or approvals?

Requirements vary by city and county. Tribal Cowboy handles all permit research and coordination — you don't manage this. We've navigated event permitting across multiple Idaho and Washington jurisdictions. If a permit is needed, we get it. If a health department notification is required, we handle that too. No action required from your team.

Q4 — CLEANUP & SANITATIONWhat about animal waste and cleanup?

Entirely on us. Tribal Cowboy brings dedicated waste management supplies, cleanup materials, and sanitation equipment. The activation area is actively maintained throughout the event — not just at the end. The lot is fully cleared and restored within 90 minutes of close. We leave the parking lot the way we found it.

Q5 — OPERATIONS & PARKINGHow does this affect our lot and daily operations?

The activation uses approximately 6–8 standard parking spaces (40' x 60' footprint). Tribal Cowboy walks the site in advance with your store manager to confirm placement that keeps all traffic lanes, fire access, and store entrances clear. Setup happens before open, teardown is complete before close of business, and guest flow within the activation is managed entirely by our staff. Your team does not coordinate the event — you host it.

ONE MORE THING WORTH NOTINGEvery photo that leaves this event carries your brand.

Our instant photo delivery system overlays every guest photo with your company logo, event name, and date — then delivers it directly to their phone. When guests post to Instagram, Facebook, or text it to family, your brand is in the frame. Dozens to hundreds of branded impressions circulating through the horse community's social feeds from a single event day.

WHO WE ARE

Real Horses. Real Experience. Real People.

Tribal Cowboy LLC is an Indigenous-owned equine experience business in Athol, Idaho, operated by Stacie Huffhines — a Nisenan Maidu woman who has spent her life around horses. These are our animals. We know them by name. Every event is staffed by our own team.

THE PHOTO SYSTEM

Guests scan a QR code and find their photos instantly — no app, no email, no wait. Every image carries a custom branded frame with your logo, event name, and date. Photos circulate on social for days after the event. CCPA-aligned — no PII stored.

OUR HERD

Meet the Team

These animals are our partners, not props. They're calm, trained, and experienced in public activations.

- › The Clydesdales — Four purebred mares, each over 1,800 lbs. Your customers will recognize exactly what they're looking at.
- › The Pony Herd — Working ponies for riders ages 3–10, 80 lbs or under. Comfortable in crowds, trained for public events.
- › All Animals — Current on health certificates, accustomed to music, crowds, trailers, and unfamiliar environments.

SERVICE AREA

North Idaho and Eastern Washington. Coeur d'Alene, Post Falls, Hayden, and surrounding communities are our primary market. North 40 locations across the region are exactly where we want to be.

WHY THIS EXISTS

Horses should be accessible to everyone. Billy — Stacie's brother, who passed in March 2025 one week before his 48th birthday — had Down syndrome and spent his life in a world that didn't always make room for him. Tribal Cowboy is making that room. Every activation is fully accessible, and the business is building toward an indoor arena where people with Down syndrome can ride and work with horses on their own terms.

WHAT PEOPLE SAY

"My 8-year-old said 'that lady in Coeur d'Alene because she let us ride her horses and was nice.'"

— Parent, private session

"Thank you for giving kids a space to bond with animals."

— Repeat weekly lesson family, Coeur d'Alene

THE CDA PILOT OFFER

One Event. Clear Metrics. No Guesswork.

Start with a single Tier 2 activation at the CDA location — the founding event for what becomes a North Idaho program. Success metrics defined upfront. Debrief scheduled before the event date. You know exactly what you're measuring before the horses arrive.

CDA PILOT — PROJECTED EVENT MATH (based on comparable North Idaho events — Rathdrum Days, Make It Messy [recurring family event series, Hayden])

Metric	Conservative	Expected	Strong Day
Families engaged	40–60	80–100	120+
Avg incremental in-store basket	$15	$25	$35
Est. same-day store revenue lift	$600–$900	$2,000–$2,500	$4,000+
Branded photos delivered & shared	40+	100+	200+

Store revenue figures are projected incremental spend, not total store revenue. Comparable events (Rathdrum Days 2024, Make It Messy — Hayden) generated $2,000–$2,500 in total event revenue per activation in community festival settings. You know your store's actual traffic and average basket size better than any benchmark — if your numbers run higher, the math works harder. Does not include repeat visit value, social reach, or brand equity.
